What's wrong with visions?

By Mike Olsson

We are all waiting for the outcome of the negotiations with Dfid concerning the "Wharf Improvement Project". While we are waiting, we can always use our imagination to create our own plans for what could be done to improve the infrastructure on St Helena. St Helena Herald has looked at some individual projects and put them together as a general plan for the Island.

ST HELENA GENERAL ELECTION

His Excellency the Governor in a radio interview on 17 May advised that he intended to dissolve Legislative Council on 18 May and declare a General Election on Wednesday, 27 June. This has now been done. Plans are therefore in progress to prepare for the General Election on 27 June - that is the date when a new Government will be chosen to serve you for the next four years or so. As you have heard via radio, the Writs will be issued by His Excellency the Governor on Thursday, 31 May to the Returning Officer to conduct the Election. Nomination Days have been set as follows:

Monday, 11 June: Blue Hill, Sandy Bay and Alarm Forest

Tuesday, 12 June: Longwood, Levelwood and Half Tree Hollow

Wednesday, 13 June: St Paul's and Jamestown

The venue for receipt of Nomination Forms are: for Blue Hill at the Blue Hill Community Centre; for Sandy Bay at the Sandy Bay Community Centre; for Alarm Forest at the Alarm Forest Police Station; for Longwood at the Harford Community Centre; for Levelwood at the Levelwood Community Centre; for HTH at the HTH Community Centre; for St Paul's at the Kingshurst Community Centre and for Jamestown at the Jamestown Community Centre. In each of these places nominations will be received between 10 am and 12 noon and may be handed in either by the candidate, his/her proposer or seconder. It is advisable to hand in Nomination Forms as soon as possible after 10 am. This will ensure that if there are any corrections to be made, there is time to make them before the nomination period closes at 12 noon. Any person wishing to stand must be 21 years or over and their names must be on the 2001 Registers of Electors. These Registers are posted on all notice boards around the Island, as well as in Community Centres, Solomons shops at Half Tree Hollow, Sandy Bay, Longwood and Levelwood, the Police Stations at HTH, White Gate, Longwood and Alarm Forest, Scotland Office, Head O' Wain Clinic, Mrs Audrey Yon's shop at Blue Hill, the Public Library and the Office of the Chief Secretary. The Nomination Form is simple to fill in. There has to be a proposer, a seconder and at least five supporters, all of whom must be on the 2001 Registers of Electors. A candidate need not be registered in the particular area he or she proposes to stand: it can be anywhere on the Island provided his/her name is on the 2001 Registers. However, the proposer, seconder and supporters must all be registered electors in the area for which the candidate is nominated. Each Nomination Form must be accompanied by the candidate's written consent to stand for election. The signatures of the proposer and seconder must be witnessed by a Justice of the Peace, but the signatures of the supporters can be witnessed by anyone. Nomination Forms can be obtained from: The News Media Office, Broadway House, Jamestown Spar, HTH Spar, Community Centres around the Island. Mrs Doris Yon's shop at New Ground, Mrs Audrey Yon's shop at Blue Hill, Thorpes and Solomons shops at Sandy Bay, Solomons Supermarket at Longwood, Alarm Forest Police Station and from the Returning Officer, Ethel Yon and Assistant Returning Officers Patricia Andrews and Jackie Lawrence at the Office of the Chief Secretary. If any help is required, please contact the Returning Officer or her Assistants. They will be very pleased to give whatever help is required. The ball is in your court so choose the people you want to represent you on Legislative Council. The decision is yours. Listen to your local radio station and read your local newspaper to keep you fully informed. ACT NOW TO CHOOSE YOUR CANDIDATE.

PRESS RELEASE CURNOW SHIPPING LIMITED

Enquiries have been received at the Castle asking whether the RMS St Helena has been detained in Cardiff. The answer is no. Devon and Cornwall Police acting on behalf of the Serious Fraud Office visited the ship on arrival at Cardiff as a continuing part of their investigations into allegations about Curnow Shipping Limited. They interviewed senior officers. The RMS is scheduled to sail on Thursday 31 May 2001.

PRESS RELEASE FROM THE GOVERNOR
ST HELENA SHIPPING SERVICE TENDER
EXERCISE

The evaluation of tenders for the RMS Ship Management Contract and the RMS Passenger Agency Contract carried out by St Helena Line, is now complete. It has been agreed that both contracts are to be awarded to Andrew Weir Shipping Limited, Andrew Weir Shipping is a long established, privately owned shipping company with an excellent reputation. They have a great deal of experience in operating throughout the world, including serving small islands. Notably, they have strong links with the Iberian Peninsular (Spain and Portugal) and with South Africa, and they operate a monthly round-the-world service, which could deviate to Cape Town and St Helena if the need arose. They have a dedicated passenger department with an on-line passenger booking and management system, and have identified all experienced passenger shipping manager who will be appointed to manage the St Helena passenger service. AWSL have a comprehensive web site at: www.aws.co.uk. The transition between Curnow Shipping Ltd and Andrew Weir Shipping Ltd for the running of the RMS will be kept as smooth as possible, and there is a provision in the Ship Management Contract for retention of all St Helenians employed on the RMS, It is considered to be advantageous to have both contracts awarded to the same company. However, it should be stressed that AWSL were considered the preferred tender for both contracts independently. St Helena Line will now finalise negotiations with Andrew Weir Shipping on the two contracts, taking note of a number of pertinent issues raised by the Governor.

Well, what do you think of our new look?

The St Helena Herald has been launched today and is the result of a great deal of thought and hard work by the staff at Broadway House. The Media Services on St Helena have entered yet another phase of development. To commemorate the occasion we have printed a Limited Edition of 120 numbered copies in colour, which will be on sale at the Souvenir Shop and Broadway House for £5 per copy. Sadly we cannot afford to do a full colour run of the entire edition, we will however have limited colour banners for the next month; the normal print run will remain at 15p per copy. The dedicated team at the Herald, including the new logo, did the planning work and layout. Special mention should be made of Emma-Jane Yon who is the prime mover in formatting the newspaper, Garron Yon, who apart producing the Adverts and Announcements pages has become a very prolific young journalist, Sara Thompson, Pamela Williams and myself do the bulk of the proof reading to ensure that the paper is as free of errors as possible not to mention a substantial amount of the typing. Most of us are involved in taking the photographs of which we have thousands in our archive most of which have never seen the light of the printed page. I would also like to take this opportunity to thank Mike Olsson for his occasional and thought provoking articles. I must thank our regular contributors and correspondents. I hope they will continue to support a free press, which is of such vital importance in any democratic society. There are many countries in the world where people do not enjoy such a free liberty of expression. In closing this part of the Editorial I would like to thank the staff of the Printing Office who despite their other work for government always manage to ensure that the newspaper is printed on time. Another development within the Media Services is the provision of a 24-hour radio broadcast from Radio St Helena in addition to the regular programming during the day the broadcast of the BBC World Service should also commence this evening when the local broadcast comes to an end. The BBC will continue throughout the night and through the weekend. If things go according to plan this will now become a permanent feature of the service provided by the station. Tony Leo, the Station Manager, has been pursuing this option for quite some time and the BBC agreed to provide a satellite dish so that the World Service can be received in digital quality throughout the day and night. Governor Hollamby was of great assistance in impressing on the BBC the importance of the World Service to the Island in helping us to keep up with world events, sports and other programmes, especially those who do not have access to the television service. So whenever you turn on your radio as of today there should be a broadcast to listen to. Congratulations to Tony and the staff at Radio St Helena on this innovative step forward, I am sure that it will be greatly appreciated. Particular mention should be made of Bobby Ellick, the Station Engineer, who has made an essential technical contribution to this development. With the installation of new digital equipment and computers at the station there should be a continued improvement in the service. Both branches of the Media Service have greatly benefited over the last two years from the provisions made from Good Government Funds and we certainly hope that these benefits are both apparent and audible. The staff of the Media Services would also like to thank the members of the Media Board for their support in the establishment of an independent Media since October 1999. I am sure that both branches look forward to your comments and observations but remember 'you can please some of the people some of the time but you can't please all of the people all of the time.' Bare with us: 'The miraculous we can do in a day – the impossible takes slightly longer'.

*Have a Nice Weekend

WRITE ON

Have you anything to say? Then let us know

Editorial Discretion

In the interests of brevity, clarity or space, the Editor reserves the right to withhold, abridge or amend any letter or article submitted for publication. Publication does not convey editorial approval or agreement to the writer's views.

Dear Editor,

I would be most grateful if you could convey, through the medium of St Helena News, my great pleasure in meeting with many friends – old and new – during my recent visit to St Helena. There were many others I dearly wanted to meet up with again. Unfortunately, my stay on the Island was (unavoidably) short. However, God willing, perhaps I shall get back there in the not too distant future. Which is something my daughter, Judith and her family would also like very much to do. This is understandable. They loved the scenic beauty of St Helena and the friendliness of everyone they met there. On behalf of us all I thank relatives and friends alike for their kindness and hospitality during our brief stay in the community. Regrettably, it did not allow us to take up every invitation extended to us. But we love you for it all the same. With kindest regards and best wishes to all

Arthur Stevens

Dear Editor,

Through you I would very much like to thank Mrs Barbara George for offering support to my recommendation (published April) that the Island might benefit from a Suggestions Column in the St Helena Herald. In keeping with my hope that such a column might provoke thought, constructive criticism and – who knows? Possibly even some positive results, my husband Chris and I both say 'Bravo!' to her idea of removing those unsightly containers from the very spot on the Wharf that offers the finest and most romantic views of James Bay and St Helena's beautiful sunsets. We are obviously in no position to assess the cost of constructing a road around Mundens, but certainly due thought should be given to the possibility by those who are. First impressions do count, and the newcomer's arrival into that chaos of containers is neither pretty nor welcoming. Thank you Mrs George. To you, Mr Editor, perhaps I could give a small nudge. Mrs George is not the only person to have verbalised support for a Suggestions Column. How about finding a bit of special space for it?

Yours sincerely
Lindsay Grattan-Cooper.

Up until now we have been including 'ideas' in our 'Write On' column because it is one of the first pages which readers turn to, however I will give further consideration to the creation of a specific Suggestions Column. Ed.

Dear Editor,

Being the wife of an employee of the Energy Division I feel obligated to put the record right with regards to the comments made by the "Struggling Tax Payer" in last week's 'Write On' column. My husband, a diligent and dedicated employee of the Energy division for the past 34 years DID NOT EVER as the writer stated 'do any disappearing act and did what he liked best' when it was his week for Stand By Duty. In fact "Struggling Tax Payer" he was often called upon when not on duty regardless of what the family plans were, his job always came first. May I add that the hours worked at times were long and arduous (Yes, he too was called upon at 3am, arrived home at 6am and was back on duty at 7.30am – 4pm) and special occasions e.g. Christmas Day lunch with the family was instead spent repairing someone's cooker. The Stand By allowance was not that handsome £15 per week, to be exact it was £12 per week after tax deduction. It was a pity that the free service provided regardless of the time of day or weather conditions was not appreciated by some who, instead, chose to be threatening. Due to the latter my husband decided that it was not worth the sacrifice, much to our childrens and my delight. I hope that these few points for there are more but space won't allow me, enlightens you and the public that it was not through greed (your description) that the service ceased. You are barking up the wrong tree "GREED" would be more fitting for another section of the PW&SD i.e. the Water Division who at that time were also in receipt of Stand By allowance of £15 per week but overtime inclusive resulting in a weekly wage ranging £120-£140. Instead of degradation a show of appreciation and recognition to the dedicated people of the Government Services would make such a difference on this Island instead of the existing 'do wrong and you come out right' situation.

Finally, I think the "Concerned Islander" was referring to Discomfort Allowances such as Dirty work and Height I stand to be corrected. If so, these allowances are still being paid to the Works section of the PW&SD. Height Allowance rate is up to 50 feet £1 per day, over 50feet £2 per day and dirty work I think is £1 per day. If, as the "Concerned Islander" wrote, that these allowances have ceased to be payable to the Energy division then that accounts for the discontentment because what's good for the goose is good for the gander. Energy Division happens to be a section of the PW&SD but for the life of me I don't know why it is treated differently especially when it comes to compensation for ones responsibilities.

Yours sincerely
Charmaine Peters

Dear Editor,

I was extremely disappointed to read the article, which was written by Mrs Corinda Essex, the owner of the London Gift Shop. I do not intend to go further in this argument about the incident that happened to me in the shop mentioned above during my visit to St Helena. However I'd like to give one final ethical and civilised opinion of what had happened. To begin with, I have already paid part of the price of the ornament; second all the items weren't displayed behind a glass barrier as Mrs Essex claimed, there even wasn't a written notice requesting that customers refrain from handling the merchandise. Third, could any crystal ornament break just by handling; would it not be of inferior quality? Fourth, suppose I was unintentionally the cause of the damage as claimed, would I really deserve such treatment, which is full of suspicion and accusation, especially when I was a guest in your country? I have toured the whole world and I assure the Editor, the readers and all the kind people I truly loved in St Helena that no shops in any eastern or western country would insistently mistreat a customer for they certainly sell not just goods but the good reputation as well, which is obviously of least concern to Mrs Essex.

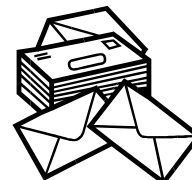

Yours sincerely

Dear Editor,

I refer to Tuesday night's (22 May) radio news item when it was stated that "people thought that more effort should have been put into the St Helena Day Celebrations". Although I agree that people are entitled to their opinions, sadly this sort of comment is becoming more and more prevalent on St Helena. Too many of us just sit back and do nothing but cast a critical eye. How much nicer it would have been if these people would have come forward and made some contribution, this could have easily been done, even if it was in a small way like participating in the activities that was offered. Such suggestions for improvements made in the news item would have had a more positive effect if it had been made before the celebration - not after! After all, we were all invited to submit our suggestions. But what was easier? Yes, sit back and criticise! To the Q5 Celebrations Committee, let me assure you that there are many of us out here who are truly grateful and appreciate the endless voluntary time and effort put into the preparation of these celebrations for each and everyone of us. Don't start the count down to the Quincentenary in such a mood. Think "celebration", think "co-operation", think with "community spirit". Do not think critical! So come oooooonnnn!! Lets get together!! Lets celebrate!! Lets party!!! Lets enjoy!!!! Keep your heads up and keep smiling!

Cynthia Bennett

P.S. Congratulations to Jason and Damien for the design and production of the Count Down Clock.

Dear Editor,

I would like to confound our critics and actually openly agree with something that has been written by one of your readers. Yes indeed Mrs George, the idea of a coastal road around the base of the cliffs to Ruperts would indeed answer many problems inherant in our present road system as well as clearing up the general feeling of seediness and decay that is the first sight that any visitor has of St. Helena. It is amazing to me that we still grind up a hill to come down a hill when Ruperts is comparitvly near and a coastal road would not only be a lot quicker but so very much safer. The thought of the damage that would be done if the petrol tanker were to lose its brakes or indeed any heavy vehicle getting out of control above such built up areas does not bear thinking about. It is no use wringing our hands in grief after some calamity has occured, or sending ideas for the betterment of our island to the scrap heap moaning about the lack of funds, instead all those little twiddly dee bibs and bobs which are asked for every year should be put to one side and we should take all those little bits from the Governors Discretionary Funds and the Miscellaneous Public Works and start. We have the labour and the tools to tackle the job and if we spent less on Community Centres which no-one wants to run and other odd-ball endeavours we could get the whole thing under way. I remember that Dave Harrison offered to use his expertise and using explosives carefully detonate the hill side and prepare a way for a bulldozer and road gang. Not one of the persons who should have been grateful expressed any interest in this offer when Dave, I was led to understand, only asked for the explosives, detonators, drill and a small gang to assist him. Many years ago I suggested that we could make Ruperts Bay into a small harbour and whilst taking the heavy machinery up to build the air strip we could open the Old Boer Road. All these things could be a p r a c t i c a l proposition if we only stuck to our guns and became the masters of our own destiny.

Dear Editor,

I was happy to see a letter from the Clerk to the Councils answering a letter from Olive Yon in South Africa but unfortunately it does nothing to explain how such permission was given when the same Public Service Order specifically states that no Overseas Government Officer can apply to purchase land unless he is within two years of retirement and expresses a desire to settle on the Island after retirement. I hate being a 'sour grapes' all the time but does no-one bother about these various laws and the points clearly and most precisely laid out within the Public Service Orders?

"Trouble in Tristan"

By Garron Yon

Heavy winds have caused considerable damage in Tristan da Cunha. The incident occurred on Wednesday 23 May and St Helena Herald learnt of the disaster on Friday of that week. The 120mph winds destroyed a quarter of the hospital including the theatre and x-ray machine and caused some houses to lose their roofs. The Prince Phillip Community Hall is said to have been "seriously damaged." The winds took out electricity and communications, and Mr Glass, Chief Islander said it would be at least a week before communications are restored, although he expected electricity to be restored within three hours of the incident. The Islanders were unable to receive incoming calls or send and receive e-mails. Mr Glass said that he may have to put in a bid for funding to replace their satellite phone and x-ray machine. He feels that once the damage has been fully assessed, there might be the need to have other items replaced. The Office of the Chief Secretary has informed that Governor Hollamby's thoughts are with the brave Islanders at this time. He has contacted DfID to ask them to provide emergency aid to the Island. In such circumstances, DfID is committed to doing this.

In His Excellency's view, this is an appropriate source of funding since there is only £600,000,00 in the present three-year aid agreement. This money is mainly for technical cooperation within the Island. A South African crewed ship the Kelso, has left Cape Town for Tristan with roofing materials. Tristan is St Helena's smallest sister Island and it was only in October of 1961 that all of the inhabitants had to be evacuated to the UK because of a volcanic eruption. The Island was discovered in 1506 by the Portuguese navigator Admiral Tristan da Cunha, although no one landed until 137 years later. St Helena Herald has tried to contact the Tristan Administrator but has been unsuccessful due to their communication problems.

TOURISM ASSOCIATION ON THE ROCKS?

By Johnny Drummond

On Monday evening, 28 May at the Consulate Hotel, nine members out of a possible 16 attended a meeting of the Tourism Association. The turn out was insufficient to form a quorum to elect a new Committee. Another meeting is scheduled for Wednesday 6 June at the Consulate at 7.30pm in the hope that a committee can be elected to carry the Association forward. Stephen Biggs, the current Chairman said that the committee were bitterly disappointed at the poor response from members. He continued to say that there is a definite need for an independent associated group of interested parties involved in the provision of tourist services to try to relay to Government the concerns and suggestions of the tourists with whom they come into direct contact. If the Island is going to move forward with tourism as one of the lynch pins of our future economic development as is anticipated, there needs to be co-operation between the public and government. Stephen stressed that tourism is a good foreign currency earner, which brings new money to the Island. On this basis everyone with any involvement in any area of the tourist industry, whether it be eco-tourism, the provision of accommodation or taxi services etc should make every effort to attend the meeting on Wednesday. Steve would like to remind those with a vested interest in the development of a thriving Tourism Association that there is strength in numbers and that a cohesive approach to the problems of small enterprises is essential if the Association is to work for the maximum benefit of St Helena.

ACTIVITY REPORT

Last week the Police Department dealt with 23 reports. Late on Friday night two arrests were made in separate incidents. Sebastian Stroud of New Ground was arrested for assault occasioning actual bodily harm following a fight at the Oasis tavern in Half Tree Hollow. Jeremy Henry of Clay Gut was arrested for causing a Breach of the Peace at his family home. Both persons appeared before Magistrates on Saturday morning and were released from custody on conditional bail. They will return to Court on 7 June. On Saturday night two incidents occurred in licensed premises in Jamestown; one at the White Horse Bar and the other at the Consulate Bar; in both incidents persons were injured though not seriously. Both cases are now under Police investigation. The Police are concerned about outbreaks of fighting on licensed premises and are working closely with licensees to try and prevent this type of incident from happening. There was a burglary in the Half Way area, when a TOSHIBA Laptop computer was stolen from a dwelling. The Police would remind the public that they should ensure that ALL doors and windows are locked and secured when they leave their homes regardless of how long they expect to be absent. It only takes moments for a sneak thief to do their work and escape with valuables, which may well be of more personal worth to you than themselves. Two persons were stopped and searched for suspected possession of Cannabis as a result of a phone call from an informant. No illegal drugs were found, however the Police would like to thank the persons concerned. There were two minor road traffic accidents. In one case a car was allegedly hit whilst parked at the Seafront. The other occurred at Grapevine Gut on Sunday afternoon. Other reports were of a minor nature and were dealt with appropriately.

The Battle of the Papers - Part 1

By Garron Yon

News has always been important, even on a small Island such as St Helena. The St Helena News Media distributes some 1400 newspapers each week and is widely received via the Internet with some 20, 000 hits to date. For many people – news has become an essential part of their daily diet, and the British Government has stated that there is a need for a free press on St Helena. Today will mark yet another event in history, since we have now become the St Helena Herald. One might almost say: “going back to our roots” because 1853 saw the first publication of the St Helena Herald by Thomas Dick of Market Street, Jamestown. In this new series, St Helena Herald will take a trip down memory lane, finding out about all newspapers that were published on St Helena. The earliest newspaper held at the St Helena Archives is the St Helena Advocate, first published in May of 1851, the year when the first “free” press was imported to the Island. It is said that “Its introduction was hailed with a joy that was almost delirious,” At the time, the Advocate catered for a population of 6000 people. The proprietors felt that the Islanders were not used to freedom of expression or opinion, and therefore, they wanted: “awaken and rouse

Researching at the Archives

[them] to a proper consideration of public affairs – to form a public opinion and to make [their] voice heard.” The paper published various information including an article on the Great Exhibition of that year, court proceedings and at first, many letters to the Editor. However, it was short lived, eventually having to close down in January 1853. The Advocate had been set up by Governor Gibb, but those running the paper had started to criticise him. He therefore introduced the new: St Helena Chronicle (first published in 1852), which eventually succeeded in pushing the Advocate out of business. Yet even this paper was short lived. By 17 February 1853 the Herald was making the bold statement to: “think as we choose, to write as we choose, to admit into the paper what we choose, and to reject what we choose.” The Herald firmly stated: “We will be responsible to nobody.” Reference: St Helena Newspapers and St Helena 1502 – 1938 by Philip Gosse.

MAGISTRATES COURT –

24th May 2001

Ian Douglas Sim of Ladder Hill appeared before magistrates charged with consuming intoxicating liquor whilst on a Restriction Order, he pleaded guilty and was sentenced to two months imprisonment suspended for 12 months. He was represented by Mr Colin Forbes, Public Solicitor.

Timothy James Ellick of Sunnyside was charged with Assault Occasioning Actual Bodily Harm. He pleaded guilty and was fined £40 plus £5 costs. Mr Ellick was not represented.

Mervyn George Crowie of Teale’s Cottage, Jamestown was charged with being found drunk in a public place, he pleaded guilty and was fined £15 plus £5 costs. Mr Colin Forbes, Public Solicitor, represented him. Magistrates presiding were: Mr H B Legg, OBE, Mr A E D Clarke, MBE and Mr S A Stroud.

Notice is hereby given that Ms Lynette Bloomfield of Luffkins Tower has applied for a Work Permit for a period of 5 years to enable her to work as a self-employed Human Resources Consultant/ Psychotherapist on St Helena. Any objections to the grant of the above Work Permit may be lodged with the Immigration Control Board, in writing, within thirty days of the publication of the notice dated 14th May 2001.

HANSARD – Friday 11 May 2001

Dr John Marek: Asked the Secretary of State for International Development, if she will make it her policy to ensure an air strip is available in St Helena at the same time or before one becomes available at Pitcairn.

Clare Short: We are waiting for the results of a Comparative Study of Air and Sea Access to identify the least cost solution to St Helena’s future international passenger and cargo transport needs. The final report is expected shortly and its recommendations will then need to be discussed with the St Helena Government. The results of that study cannot be prejudged and no presumption can be made that it will lead to support being offered for the provision of an airfield.

From the Fire & Rescue Service

After several hectic weeks for this section, things slowed down a little this week (at least at the time of writing this report). We have been involved in a few public safety issues, but this also allowed us some time to catch up on some training in other elements of fire fighting. We started the week by launching the Rescue Boat to offer safety support for the dumping of old vehicles which is being carried out by the Environmental Health Department and Solomon and Company. The boat with divers on board kept in close contact with workmen on the barge throughout the morning whilst old cars were moved from the Wharf in Jamestown to the artificial reef just off Breakneck Valley. (Picture). This week we welcome Deon Leo of Half Tree Hollow to the Fire Service - in actual fact Deon has been working with the Department since late last year in a training capacity. Whilst we ran a basic recruit course early this year (Feb - Mar) he was unable to be released from his job, but instead has been working towards becoming operational during normal weekly training sessions. He now joins our team of operational fire-fighters. We are always looking to speak to people interested in becoming auxiliary (part time) fire-fighters, and as vacancies become available we are able to recruit. So if you are interested in becoming a fireman, becoming a part of an ever improving emergency service, then please feel free to contact me or Leading Fire Fighter Alan Thomas for details. Proactive Fire Safety is an ongoing objective for the department, already, inspections have been made on various premises and recommendations made, this runs in line with fire safety inspections made on new buildings. We have noted that also discharge cargo, James Bay would be the best option. The Breakwater in the sketch is about 315 meters long and 30 meters wide, built from about 150,000 cubic metres of stone surrounded by concrete armouring. The inside of the breakwater can be used as a berth for a ship of considerable size.

Have a safe week
Derek Richards, Deputy Fire Chief

Breakwater

The seas in both Rupert's Bay and James Bay are preventing any improvements of wharf facilities without shelter in the form of a breakwater or quay. Ideas have been launched several times before and suggestions about location either in Rupert's, James Bay and even Lemon Valley have been made. Aesthetically, Rupert's Bay might be a preferred option but it is not likely that passengers would enjoy that solution. If we want a quayside where ships can come long side to disembark passengers and

Reclaimed land and new wharf
To maximise the benefit of the breakwater, we need space to off-load cargo and passengers and park our cars. James Bay with its relatively shallow waters and bottom consisting of sand, would be ideal for a large landfill operation. The front of the reclaimed land is a 600 meters long concrete quayside with berths for several ships when necessary. This project would need about 600,000 cubic metres of rock and stone, which is in plentiful supply both at West Rocks and at the Wharf and sand for the concrete work can be pumped

An access to a world of knowledge – READING

In our small corner of the world we too took 'Read Around The World' as a day for promoting reading in our school. We started the day with our older students, Shelly Magellan, Shinade Henry, Noleen Fowler, Leemarc Thomas, Kerry Stevens, Colin Thomas, Justine Sim, Natalie Greentree, Stacey Yon, Holly Sutherland, Leslie Constantine, Deon Maggott, Damon Bowers, Arabella George, Carrie Henry, Shane Williams and Stacey Young, reading stories and poems to our lower school students. Thank you students for a job well done!

Desert Island Books

If you were stranded on a desert Island which reading material would you want to have on hand? Would it be, Treasure Island, DH Lawrence- Sons and Lovers, The Millennium Record book, Sausage Mole and Little Foal or The Holy Bible? These were some of the books staff contributed towards a staff Desert Island Books Display. Guest readers Three guest readers responded to invitations to come in and read to our Yr. 7 students. Mr Patrick George chose George's Marvellous Medicine by Roald Dahl which is always a popular author with our younger students. Alan Garner's –The Weirdstone of Brisingham was read by Mr Bobby Essex and Mr Basil George read about a boy called "Nomas" from Jamestown who scared nana with a scorpion and was told, "that boy needs takin' in hand". The students enjoyed the stories. Thank you to Patrick, Bobby and Basil.

Out of school:

The aim of Reading Around the World is to extend the pleasures of reading to all, regardless of age or ability. To include our more elderly citizens in this important event, Tina Dillon, Kerry Stevens, Shinade Henry and Anthony Sommers who, armed with the Holy Bible, a collection of Limericks written by our year 7 students and other poems, went off to read to the elderly at the Haven, the Geriatric ward and Sundale. The residents thoroughly enjoyed this reading experience and were deeply touched. Thanks to those students involved for helping us to reach out and share this experience. To pick up a book and read is like going on a journey, a cheap but rewarding journey. As a school we continue to foster and develop our students interest in reading because for them reading is the key to their learning.

ST HELENA NATIONAL TRUST UPDATE NO. 3

Proposals to develop a National Trust on Saint Helena are continuing. A Steering Committee comprises representatives of voluntary organisations which have an interest in:

- the conservation of the natural and built environment
- the preservation of Saint Helena's artistic and cultural heritage

These organisations are the Heritage Society, Nature Conservation Group, Dive Club, Tourism Association, Farmers Association, Arts & Craft Group, Millennium Forest Committee and Sandy Bay Environmental Centre. SHG is also a key stakeholder represented by officers from the Environment Planning & Development Section and Physical Planning. Currently the Committee is concentrating on preparing the groundwork necessary to set up the Trust as a formal straight from the sea. Except for the blasting of rock, which has to be done with care, the operation is not complicated. The over 12 acres of new land could give place for welcomed improvements –Marina, Slip-way, Passenger terminal and safe Customs facilities.

Road to Rupert's and Longwood

A Coastal Road to Rupert's Valley is not a new idea. Several routes are possible. In the sketch we have used the existing lower path to Rupert's as the proposed track when machinery and workforce already have access to the site of construction. The road would start from where the Jubilee Coldstore is today, continue around Mundens Hill, behind Argos and the Fisheries in Ruperts and end opposite St Michael's Church. The massive amounts of rock taken from the construction of the coastal road will be welcome for the construction of the breakwater and the landfill in James Bay. From Rupert's Valley, a new road mainly following the old "Boer Road" to Deadwood could be constructed. This is an old idea, which surprisingly has not materialised when the building of such a road would not be complicated nor excessively expensive. These two road projects would cut the distance from Longwood to Jamestown considerably and cut the travelling time by well over organisation in it's own right. This includes developing ideas for generating income to sustain its financial viability. At the last meeting held on Tuesday 15th May, the Committee reviewed progress on the Legislative framework which is being drafted by Alan Nicholls, a member of the Project Management Team which supports the Steering Committee. Other members of the Project Team are Rebecca Cairns-Wicks, Isabel Peters and Lynnette Bloomfield. The half. If a future airport comes true, the benefit would be even larger. The Coastal Road would make it possible to move containers and cargo from Jamestown to Rupert's for storage if necessary and give the possibility to develop Rupert's Valley into the industrial site as planned for several years.

Who would build and who would pay?

Large projects cost money, no doubt, but the money can be used to work for the Island. There are no reasons why local labour and skills cannot be used. There will be a need for maybe two or three experienced engineers and some initial training for Saints provided by ex-pats but the Island could manage the rest of the project. No accurate costing of the entire plan has been made but qualified guesses indicate a round figure of £10 million. A major share of the money would stay on the Island and boost the economy over the three years the construction would take. Finance from both local sources and aid organisations would be possible when the projects can be seen as economically beneficial and sustainable.

Consequences and Benefits

Some will say that Jamestown will lose some of its charm and Georgian style from the development of the Wharf. This does not have to be entirely true. By moving car-parks to the new Wharf, development of Jamestown for tourism purposes can take off. The outdoor cafes and restaurants, suggested by some, are given space in the Grand Parade and in Main Street. It would even be possible to convert Jamestown into a conservation area if we so wished. All the modern facilities not suitable in town have enough space outside the Arch or in Rupert's Valley. The current Wharf area is neither from an aesthetic nor a safety point of view suitable for tourism and safe, efficient cargo handling facilities are also non-existent at the moment. The rock-fall on Easter Monday and the more recent controlled clearing of rocks in the Wharf area proved the unsuitability of the location. Our workmen, our people and potential tourists are taking unacceptable risks being at the Wharf. The proposed plans would make it possible to terrace the hillside and use the masses for landfill. Previous ideas of creating a free harbour and a non-tax development area on the Island would be possible. The spin off effects, both during the construction and for the future of St Helena would be enormous. Combined with an airport, the Island would be well on the way to prosperity.

meeting also discussed the need to raise public awareness and seek opportunities to explain what the NT is all about. Meanwhile the Project Team are working on the development of a logo, mission statement-and publicity materials. All the organisations that come under the National Trust umbrella are being encouraged to identify how their own aims and objectives fit within the NT's strategic vision to conserve and preserve the Island's beauty, history and culture. To this end, future updates will include regular contributions from every stakeholder organisation involved, describing it's own hopes and aspirations for the Trust from it's perspective. So watch this space. All enquiries and expressions of interest in the Trust will be welcomed and should be directed to Lynnette Bloomfield, Project Co-ordinator on telephone 4552 or fax 4829.

“The world wide web of life”

By Garron Yon

Cuckholds Point

Another first for St Helena – on Tuesday of this week the Island will celebrate World Environment Day. This day is recognised in many countries of the world, but never before on St Helena. Isabel Peters, Environmental Coordinator, said: “This is the first we have heard of it, so we decided to celebrate it this year” The theme for this year is:

“Connect with the world wide web of life.” She and, Christine Henry the Acting Environmental Assistant, have been involved in a lot of preparation and planning for the day which falls on 5 June. Their aim is: “To promote an awareness of St Helena’s environment.” Events have been planned for the whole week from the 1st to the 8th of June, most of which will take place in schools. Students will be participating in environmental competitions, tree planting, visits to the Millennium Forest, special environmental assemblies and more. Members of the public will be able to hear about different environmental issues via Radio St Helena.

Adove: A Wirebirds nest with eggs
Right: The St Helena Olive

Other groups and organisations will also be involved. The St Helena Nature Conservation Group has been embarking on many walks and will be walking to High Hill on Sunday when they will also be clearing the paths. Later in the month they will be doing a litter clean up at Horse Pasture. The Environmental Health Section hopes to do a litter campaign and there will be a little display in the market. The week is being supported by the IYV Committee since the theme for June is the environment. Isabel hopes: “to get more people interested and involved” There will be a display depicting the natural environment of St Helena in the Canister Window and this will include a special environmental poster which is a part of the Overseas Territories series. The series was made to raise an awareness of the biodiversity of the overseas territories and depicts key endemic flora and fauna of each territory. The week will also be used to promote the Environmental Charter and the possible formation of a National Trust for St Helena.

ENVIRONMENTAL QUIZ

How much do you know about St Helena’s environment? Here are twenty trivia questions to test your knowledge. This series of short articles are based on data and comments from my logbooks. They cover a period from 1971 to October 2000. Entries in the Yacht’s log books are only the bare bones of day-to-day events in the course of a voyage. My comments will “flesh out” this sparse information. This, the first of these articles goes back to 1972. The log reads – 1400 hours, August 26 1972. Vessel moving sluggishly towards the coast of Brazil. Wind easterly, Force 3. Sea slight. All aboard hoping that this will be the last day of this long drawn out passage. My wife, myself and two young children had expected to take about three weeks from St Vincent, Cape Verde Islands to Salvador, Brazil. However, protracted doldrums and the growth of a huge crop of goose barnacles had dragged the voyage out to 39 days. Some two hours later, straining my eyes peering ahead, I saw something. Out with the Ross 7 x 50 binoculars. Yes, dancing in the haze off the starboard bow I made out the slender fingers of the skyscrapers of the City of Salvador. LAND HO. What a landfall, what a triumph. I have crossed this ocean many times since, but this landfall will remain in my mind forever.

Glen Beard and Herman Peters

Glen Beard met his death in a fishing incident at Manati Bay. A Requiem Mass in his memory was held in St Paul's Cathedral on Sunday the 27th May. His wife Iona and the Beard family at Pouncey's would like to express grateful thanks to the Police and Rescue Services and anyone else who took part in the search for Glen. Thanks also to Bishop John and Father Clive for conducting the service, Joy George for playing the organ, the hundreds of people who attended the service, all those who sent messages of sympathy, from both here and overseas and anyone else who helped in any way at all at this sad time.

GLEN AND HERMAN

On our return to Porthleven from abroad, on 23rd May it was with great sorrow that Prue and I learned of the tragic loss to their families and the Island of Glen Beard and Herman Peters. We, like so many other people, have the fondest and admiring memories of Glen's strong personality and the colourful but stalwart ways, in which he represented St Helena overseas. He lived on the Sea and the Sea took him from us. May they both be at peace on another shore and in a greater light.

Very sincerely,
Andrew Bell

With great sadness I read the report of the tragedy concerning Glen and Herman. I send my heartfelt sadness at this untimely loss to both families. Glen I will especially remember with fondness for his great attitude to life and the many problems he tried to give me while I was the RMS ship manager. His banter will be remembered by many!

With deepest sympathy
Jonathan Challcombe

We were saddened to hear of the tragic news at Manati Bay. Although I didn't know Herman Peters, of course I knew Glen well from the RMS, and always enjoyed his company - a true "gentle giant". Our thoughts and prayers are with with all their friends and family.

With best wishes
Mark, Penny, Alexandra and Victoria
Vincent.

I have just read this sad news on the SHN e-mail site. I am unsure if I knew Herman Peters (the name sounds familiar) but I certainly knew Glen quite well from my sailings on the RMS and would respectfully like to offer my sincere sympathies to the families of both men.

Regards, Colin Quinn, Australia

A Tribute to our Dad

For all the years of love and care
The wonderful moments we had to share
Dad we really wanted to tell
How much we love you and wish you well
We will always be proud to carry your name
You will remain in our hearts until we meet again
Until then, for all that it's worth
We'll see you again beyond this earth
We really love you
From your son and daughter
Shaun and Caroline.

Pa Pa

God was feeling lonely
The day he took you away
He knew how much I love you
But he couldn't let you stay
Beyond the waves and mountains
He said Papa Glen come home
It breaks my heart to loose you
But you didn't go alone
My presence will always follow you wherever you will roam.
You left me precious memories
So goodbye Papa
I love you.
From your Grandson
Oshay.

GLEN BEARD.

All of us here at Curnow Shipping and on the RMS wish to pass our heartfelt condolences to Glen Beard's wife, Iona, his family and many friends. Glen was one of the first to join the Old RMS. He soon established himself as one of the mainstays of the ship and one of the unofficial leaders among the staff and crew. The ship will miss him, we will all miss him and his quiet competence and humour and his steadying presence; we will miss him more than can be expressed here. Along with many others, Glen served with distinction in the Falkland Island Conflict, volunteering for this potentially dangerous task without question. He was so keen to do this that he even became a sailor for the duration; reverting to being a steward when it was over. Glen had many jobs on both RMSs. He was a steward, he was on deck during the Falklands, a barman, laundryman, and finally the Petty Officer/Storekeeper, a very responsible post. In all these he excelled with the natural gruff charm that was his character and trademark. I, and others who were here at that time, will never forget the first voyage of the Old RMS; Glen was the Wine Steward. He had educated himself, just enough, on the etiquette of wine. His instructions were to 'sell the wine'. This he did in his own inimitable style. Glen invented a 'tradition' for this new ship; a contradiction, we all appreciate, but this was Glen's way; He insisted to passengers that it was their duty to take it in turns to buy wine for their tables, advised them on the wine to buy and using his special brand of persuasiveness that all of us were familiar with, he sold more wine than we thought possible. Glen had his own way of being very successful at all the jobs he held on the RMS, as he was in life and at every other task he set himself. Glen earned and maintained the absolute respect of all those who knew him. His passing is a great and unexpected sadness to us all. He will be sorely missed both professionally and as an utterly reliable friend.

Simon Sugrue, Curnow Shipping
Limited, Falmouth, Cornwall.

Radio ST HELENA

A New Era

Radio St. Helena opens up a new chapter this evening when our local programmes conclude at 2200 hrs. As Station Manager, I am pleased to publicly announce with the greatest of pleasure that my long awaited dream has come true. Radio St. Helena will be transmitting over twenty-four hours, including weekends. We will be switching over to the BBC World Service from the close of our local programmes at 2200 hrs today. This has come about as a result of a plea to the BBC for a better service to the South Atlantic Island of St. Helena as reception of their short-wave transmission to this part of the world has been appalling for many years. Radio St. Helena has been re-broadcasting the BBC World Service at intervals from as far back as 1977 by way of our Medium Wave Service. We were constantly apologising for the very poor reception that we were receiving from the BBC World Service, and there were times when we had no alternative but to abandon the BBC altogether because the reception was lost completely, especially during the summer months. I am pleased to say that we now hope to give our listeners the highest quality reception possible in this part of the world from the BBC World Service. I complained continually to the Atlantic Relay Station on Ascension Island, and asked if there was anything they could possibly do to help us with our reception problems. The answer was no, because we were off the footprint of their transmission and there was nothing they could do. I was in Britain for a short period of time in July 2000, and I visited the BBC World Service where I made my case known to them in person about the reception in St. Helena, and again they said that it would be a very expensive operation to better the reception in this area of the world. I came away very disappointed, but at least I was able to explain and complain personally. A few months later, I spoke to Mr Chris Turton, an Engineer working for Merlin International, the Company that operates the BBC Atlantic Relay Station on Ascension, who directed me to Paul Barton at the BBC in London. Again, I told my story and waited. At long last, I received a favourable reply to the effect that after hard discussions, the BBC had agreed that they would grant Radio St. Helena a Satellite Dish receiver to re-broadcast the BBC World Service programmes as we feel fit. This was good news, and I then made enquiries as to what was the next step. Discussion continued on the subject here on St. Helena, on Ascension Island and in London. After many weeks of waiting for a definite reply as to when we could expect the arrival of equipment on St. Helena, I was saddened to learn that the BBC found the cost of supplying and setting up such equipment for St. Helena to be far too expensive. They had to abandon the idea. I felt it was important to follow up this proposal, and I sought an appointment with His Excellency the Governor and explained the situation to him. He made contact with the BBC Headquarters and we waited for a reply. Within a few days we received an answer saying that it had been approved and the equipment would be released to us free, but the setting up and technical charges would have to be borne by the Media Services. It took us some weeks to get the 5.9 metre dish in place and tests commenced. It was a tremendous moment when we contacted BBC in London and told

Fishermen's Trails

Contributed by Phyllis Gregory

On Saturday 26th May Stedson Stroud and myself set off on another walk to lay a plaque that names some of the several fisherman's paths that have been used throughout the 500-year history of the island. The plaques were a gift to the island from Nick Cole who over several years, along with ex-Chief Engineer John Jacobson & Stedson, spent nearly every weekend carefully retracing many of these ancient paths, some of which had fallen into ruin being underused. I went on most of those walks for the sheer adventure and occasional adrenaline rush when we had to traverse a tricky bit or swing on the odd rope, but very soon I learned of the real risks these fishermen (and sometimes women came along too) had to take in order to obtain the free and plentiful protein from the sea. I might have sturdy walking boots and new climbing rope but often these fishermen had no special boots (if any) or equipment and in addition, had to carry lamps and fishing gear; on the way back they had to carry the fish along the same treacherous paths in the dark. Part of this islands heritage is of the courage of these fishermen whose names and stories occasionally name the places on the rocks where the paths lead, such as Tom Green where we laid the plaque on Saturday, Jimmy's Flat and Ben Millet. Nick Cole couldn't return to the island to do this task but with Stedson's help we have laid some of the plaques and I know he will lay the rest after I leave. Nick Cole did, however, manage to write up some of the walks and these will be printed and put on sale in the tourist office. Although not for anyone unfit or less than stout hearted, it would be great to think that folk will still be able to follow these paths and gain some insight into the courage of those fishermen and their place in the islands heritage. I would hate to think that in years to come we lose both the paths and their stories and indeed, some of the stories are tragic. If anyone can recount a story that has helped to name a fishing place on the rocks around the island it would help preserve that history by sending it in to the St Helena News letters page. Perhaps we can collect them together and print them in time for 2002 celebrations.

them that all was in place, the Satellite was located, and they could now activate the receiver. Fingers crossed, and within a few moments the BBC World Service programmes were coming through the system crystal clear. Of course some adjustments had to be made, and thanks to the Station Technician, Bobby Ellick, for his patience and knowledge, we are now ready to give the island what they have been waiting for - good reception of the BBC World Service. I thank all who have made this possible, and I hope it will better the entire output from Radio St. Helena for many years to come. A full schedule of the BBC programmes is printed for your information. The BBC have arranged a special stream of programmes for St. Helena and please note that these will be in English except for a short period from 4.30am to 5.00 am and 8.30pm to 9.00pm each day that the transmission will be in Portuguese. Any comments from listeners would be much appreciated. Please support and enjoy your local Radio Station.

GOLF

The month-long struggle is finally over. The Final of the Handicap Knockout Matchplay took place last Sunday. Leon Crowie had beaten Darren Henry in a tense match on Saturday morning, allowing Leon to take his place in the Final against John Cranfield. A 'nip & tuck' match took place with the tie delicately balanced throughout. With just two holes to go Leon had a 1-hole advantage. The final result rested on the last hole. Sadly, for John, he drove out-of-bounds into Piccolo Hill, leaving Leon to finish with a birdie-3 to take this year's title. Well done Leon, who said after the match that 'John pushed him all the way'.

As was said a couple of weeks ago, this tournament indicated the strength of the members' golf and the majority of the ties were settled by only the odd hole. Sunday also saw the traditional Texas Scramble, Tea & AGM. Winners of the match were Joan Thomas & Roy Reynolds with a score of 45 points, with Geoff Dawson and Mervyn with a score of 43. Seven people shared the two-ball pool - Leon, Hensil & Damien, Tubby and Peter Johnson, Foxy & Nicky Stevens, currently enjoying his leave from Falklands. A lovely tea, prepared by Winnie and Daphne, was enjoyed by all and then the serious business took over. By just gone 8.30 the meeting closed and the business of the AGM, including the election of a new committee, was complete. Notable amongst the elected were the new Secretary, John Cranfield, new Treasurer, Geoff Dawson and new Ladies Captain, Joan Thomas. This weekend, however, get down to the Club on any, or all, of the three days. Saturday, Members' Team Competition in the afternoon, Darts for all at the Club in the evening. Sunday Open Day for all - Members & Guests - Try your hand, even if you've never picked up a club in your life. Monday, more fun for Members & guests on the course. Ploughman's Lunch & teas/coffees available during the lunch period - and then in the evening - BarBQ fish steaks available, with fries etc. If you want to eat anything else the BarBQ will be available for you to cook other meats etc. For further details phone Rodney on 4765 or any member of the Golf Club. Make it a date at Longwood. Come & Enjoy. Remember - You too can swing happy & loose!

LIVESTOCK SECTION NOTICE

By now everyone should be aware of the BSE, commonly known as the Mad Cow Disease, and the outbreak of the most recent Foot and Mouth Disease. Because of this it is highly unlikely that there will be any importation of, animals/animal semen in the near future. Therefore, it is advisable for all farmers/owners to maintain their registered male breeding animals for the Island's use, and to try their utmost in keeping them to a fairly good standard. On the other hand, it is felt that there are still some male animals on the Island, which have attained the age where they should be registered. For those of you who are not aware of the registered age, here is a reminder:

 A stallion donkey that has attained the age of 24 months
 A bull that has attained the age of 6 months
 A ram that has attained the age of 3 months

An un-castrated male goat that has attained the age of 3 months
 A boar that has attained the age of 6 months

Whether you wish to keep the animal for breeding or slaughter, it should still be registered. The procedure is very simple. The first thing to do is to obtain a form from the Livestock Section, complete it and then return it to the Department at a negotiated time of convenience. Your animal will be assessed after which time a permit will be sent to you. The Livestock Section is aware of registered male animals that are intended for improving our current stock, so to those of you who would like to improve your livestock, please help us to help you.
